

Staff will always aim to live by:

- Smiling, having good humour and welcoming children into the classroom every day.
- Treating others as you would like to be treated by being polite, professional and kind.
- Modelling how we have positive relationships and setting the standard by always speaking to children with respect, using positive language, calmly without a raised voice.
  - Making every day a fresh start and even if consequences are needed, reminding children that there is always a way back.
- Recording accounts of positive actions of class members on 'recognition wall'.
  - Giving children clear expectations as to how we interact with others through our school rules and 'good to be green' system.
- Having positive relationships with other members of staff and the children in the class.
  - Listening and work together as a class.
- Creating a safe environment for the children to be themselves and enjoy their learning environment.
- Ensuring that children in the class have opportunities to share things they like about their classmates.
- Trusting children, ask them things, share small parts of ourselves with them.
  - Showing we are human and spend time with children not teaching.
- Modelling restorative practices employed in problem resolution that build resilience, acceptance, responsibility and maturity.
  - Equipping children with the skills to build and value relationships outside the school community e.g. residentials, police cadets and community events and initiatives.
- Providing opportunities for children to represent school and show skills such as leadership and camaraderie e.g. team sports.
  - Creating a strong ethos of anti-bullying, ensuring children are aware of what bullying is and the role they play in seeking support.

We expect children to live by:

- Being kind and considerate to each other (family, friends and adults in school).
- Helping my friends when they are sad and by including others when playing together.
  - Sharing how I feel and caring for others, checking my friends are ok.
  - Using pleases and thankyou's and being polite with adults and children
- Sharing my feelings with a trusted adult and knowing that I can trust others when they trust me.
  - Cheering on my friends and classmates.
- Celebrating others' achievements, no matter what team or class they are in.

We expect parents to live by:

- Creating time for each other by planning lots of social time as a family.
- Listening to children's ideas and what they have to say, model that they are as important in the relationship as the next person.
- Communicating with school staff through conversations, reading records and online platforms and talk about this together with children.
- Communicating openly and honestly with school over any concerns they have with their child, always involving the class teacher at the earliest opportunity.
  - Showing interest in children's learning and support them.
  - Coming into school when opportunities arise to be a part of school life.
- Showing that family is also a team unit, where every family is part of the same team.
- Using positive and calm voices and words in all situations, smiles breed smiles!
  - Showing and encouraging kindness and forgiveness and role model good manners.
  - Modelling strong healthy relationships through those you have with friends and family and be interested in what they have to say and do.
- Showing patience and taking the time to communicate with other people who need to know any issues that are arising.
  - Backing up school staff once any issues have been resolved to ensure consistency between home and school.
  - Looking out for each other and helping/caring for each other.
